Jayhawk Generations

Class of 2012 joins the close-knit family

By Erika Bentson and Whitney Eriksen

Fifth Generation

Since the 1920s, when the second generation of Jayhawks landed on Mount Oread, loyal families have continued to lengthen their legacies. This year's edition of Jayhawk Generations includes more than 250 freshmen whose parents or grandparents are Alumni Association members. Like their faithful forebears, these newest Jayhawks bring varied accomplishments as scholars, community volunteers and athletes. Many of the Kansans achieved top 10-percent rankings in their high school classes, earning the Alumni Association's recognition as Kansas Honor Scholars.

With assistance from the Office of Admissions and Scholarships and alumni records research by Kim Perry of the Alumni Association staff, we are pleased to affirm once again that KU tradition is an enviable family trait.

Danielle Adam

After years on the soccer pitch, Danielle Adam will trade her cleats for oars and become a member of the KU rowing team. The Olathe Northwest High School graduate also played in the band and hopes to study nursing at KU. Danielle's parents are Paul James Adam III, c'87, and Diane Landes Adam, b'86.

Her grandparents are Paul James Adam Jr., e'56, Barbara Mills Adam, '57, and Brownell Wayne Landes, e'49. Danielle's great-grand-father is Paul James Adam, b'33, and her great-great-grandparents are Oscar, e1906, and Mary Hayden Zimmerman, c1907.

Aaron Bales

Scott Bales

Donna Robinson Bales

John H. Robinson

Aaron Bales travels to the Hill from Overland Park as a graduate of Blue Valley Northwest High School. He showed his smarts in the classroom and was a member of National Honor Society and participated in debate. Also an athlete, he played football for four years and wrestled for two. Aaron still found plenty of time to help out in his community by mentoring at Operation Break-through, where he tutored children. Aaron is the son of Scott, c'80, g'86, and Donna Robinson Bales, h'79. His grandparents are Jerald, c'50, and Irma Rick

Katherine Barnes

Katherine Barnes graduated from Shawnee Mission East and follows in the Jayhawk footsteps of her brother, Bryan, c'07. During high school, Katherine was involved in DECA and SHARE (a student volunteer organization), and sang for East's Choraliers, who performed at Carnegie Hall. She also was a member of the Gridiron Girls. Katherine's parents are Gregory, c'83, and Sara Stephenson Barnes, c'80, MSW'98. Her grandparents are the late Donald Stephenson, c'52, and Patricia Haas Murphy, '53. One great-grandfather is Banner Stephenson, '32. Through maternal grand-

Otis Allen

Jordan Fee joins the KU football team this fall after gaining an extensive lineup of honors at Hutchinson High School. He helped lead the team as captain, and also was named to Kansas' all-state first team. Jordan also excelled in basketball and baseball and received all-league honorable mentions in 2007 for baseball and 2008 for basketball. Jordan found time to volunteer for the Salvation Army and Kansas Kids Fitness Day. He's the son of Allen Fee, c'84, and the grandson of the late James, c'54, and Martha Johnson Fee, c'55. Jordan's crimson and blue lineage continues on his grandmother's side with great-grandparents Oliver, e'26, and Josephine Allen Johnson, c'28. Jordan is the great-great-grandson of Otis Allen, 1896.

Christopher
Galle

Christopher Galle's blood must run crimson and blue. With four generations of Jayhawks before him, this graduate of Blue Valley North knew he'd fit in on the Hill. Christopher excelled in athletics, participating in both varsity football and varsity track. Away from school, he traveled with the Church of the Resurrection for mission trips and helped train youngsters at community basketball camps. Christopher is the son of David, b'80, and Sue Friesen Galle, d'80. His paternal grandparents are James, c'47, and the late Burnett Replogle

Galle, f'46. His maternal grandfather is Wilbur Friesen, b'49. Christopher's KU lineage travels on to maternal great-grandfather Ernest Friesen, '20, and paternal great-grandmother Helen Burnett Replogle, c1913. His great-great-grandfather, Erastus Replogle, 1895, started the tradition on Mount Oread. Chris follows his sister, Carrie, to the Hill.

Ruth King Sneegas

Randall Sneegas

Ralph King Jr.

Mary Anne Forman King

Donald Sneegas

Carol Miller Sneegas

It's no surprise that Jason Sneegas helped lead the Lawrence Free State High School football team. His Jayhawk roots started with his maternal great-great-grandfather, acclaimed KU football coach A. R. "Bert" Kennedy, 1899, who left the school with one of the strongest coaching records: 53-9-4. Jason received all-Sunflower League honorable mentions as a wide receiver and defensive back. Jason also excelled in academics—he was a member of National Honor Society and served on the student council executive board. He's the son of Randall, b'78, and Ruth King Sneegas, h'85. Jason's paternal grandparents are Donald, b'55, and the late Carol Miller Sneegas, d'55, and his maternal grandparents are Ralph Jr., b'52, l'54, and Mary Anne Forman King, d'53, f'83. Jason's KU lineage extends on his mother's side with great-grandparents Ralph Sr., e'25, and Ruth Kennedy King, c'25, and George Forman, c'23, m'24.

Fourth Generation

Sports fanatic Alex Beal of Overland Park graduated from Bishop Miege High School. He prepared for a career at KU by attending the Orange Bowl and celebrating the NCAA National Championship with the Jayhawks in his family. He is the son of Perry Beal, j'88, and Karen Farrar English, b'83; and the grandson of William, c'55, and Velma Gaston Farrar, j'54. His maternal great-great-grandparents are William, 1911, and Beulah Bailey Warner, 1908.

Kelli Blacklock travels to the Hill from Obereg, Switzerland, where she completed her senior year and attended Paedagogische Maturitaetsschule Kreuzlingen. Kelli graduated cum laude from Ronald Reagan High School in San Antonio, where she was a member of the Friends Club and Winner's Circle Club. She also enriched her design skills during an internship with Redbox Interior Design Firm. Kelli is the daughter of Carlos Jr., e'83, g'84, and Mary Lynn Hodgson Blacklock, d'85. Her grandparents are the late Marion Hodgson, e'62, and Marilyn Kulp Endsley, d'58. Her maternal great-grandmothers are the late Mary Mareen Kulp, '58, and the late Cecelia Whisner Hodgson, '24.

Cameron Bernard of Topeka graduated cum laude from Cair Paravel Latin School, where he helped lead the football team to a KCAA state championship. He also competed with the golf team. He is the son of John, c'80, m'85, and Lettitia Johnson Bernard, p'82. He has two sets of Jayhawk grandparents, Theodore, e'50, and the late Jane Hyde Bernard, f'50, and the late John, p'59, and Laura Willan Johnson, h'58; and two great-grandparents, the late McFreeman Hyde, PhD'39, and the late Elsie Coppock Heinrich, b'58, MSW'68. Cameron is the brother of Stewart Bernard, a junior this fall.

This track star leaves his cleats behind to begin a career on Mount Oread. Running was only a part-time gig for Preston Bukaty, and as a National Merit and Kansas Honor Scholar, he graduated from Blue Valley Northwest with numerous academic honors. He also worked on the school's newspaper and participated in debate—both for three years. Preston's KU roots begin with his great-grandfather, the late Frederick Gazlay Apt, 11910. Preston is the grandson of Frederick Apt Jr., c'51, l'56, and the son of Daniel, j'83, and Barbara Apt Bukaty, '79.

Nick Cory joins fellow freshmen as a graduate of Dunlap Community High School, where he stood out on the soccer field as a member of the varsity team and rose to academic heights as an Illinois State Scholar. Outside school, Nick volunteered for the Special Olympics. Nick's great-grandmother on his father's side, the late Pauline Ingels Cory, c1912, started the KU family tree. Nick's late grandfather, Richard Cory, b'50, followed his mother. Nick also is the grandson of Jack, e'59, and Karen Theis Ling, '60. Nick is the son of Donald, c'78, m'83, and Linda Cory, assoc.

Wordsmith Anna Creaden travels to the Hill with a trio of honors. The National Merit Commended Student and Kansas Honor Scholar led fellow writers as editor-in-chief of Shawnee Mission South High School's newspaper. Also a master of the keys, Anna taught piano lessons and volunteered at Animal Haven. Her KU heritage started on her mom's side with great-grandfather John Emick, '34, and continued on her dad's side with grandparents David, '81, and Elaine Sherman Creaden, s'81, MSW'89. Her parents are Ed, c'91, and Cindy Patterson Creaden, b'85.

Jayhawk fanatic Connor Curran heads to Mount Oread from Pembroke Hill High School in Kansas City, Mo. Connor plans to study neurobiology and follow in his family's medical footsteps. His paternal great-grandfather was E.J. Curran, legendary ophthalmology professor at the School of Medicine, whose son, the late Desmond Curran, c'29, c'30, m'32, also studied medicine. Connor's maternal roots extend to great-grandparents, the late Clarence, c'28, and Virginia Hoover McGuire, assoc., and Charles Gerald Hesse, c'23; and grandparents, Thomas, c'53, m'56, and Geraldine Hesse McGuire Vaughan, c'53.

Connor is the son of Tim, c'74, and Constance McGuire Curran, '81. He joins his sister, Hope, a senior at KU.

Kyle Davis is a Lawrence native and graduate of Free State High School. He is a rugby player and a member of the Junior Jayhawk Rugby Club. Also a dedicated golfer, he spent time working and playing at Alvamar Golf Course. His Jayhawk heritage started with his great-grandfather, the late Wayne Nelson, g'53, and continued with Kyle's grandparents, Robert, a'59, and Kay Nelson Davis, f'57. Kyle is the son of Michael, d'84, g'91, and Karyn Zarley Davis, b'86.

Standout spiker Lindsey Davis received volleyball honors at Stephen F. Austin High School. The Sugar Land, Texas, native was a member of the second all-district team and played in the Junior Olympic National Championship. Lindsey also was a leader of Fellowship of Christian Athletes and volunteered at Richmond Women's Shelter and the Second Mile Mission. She is the daughter of William, b'83, and Julie Jones Davis, j'84, the granddaughter of Dick, b'59, l'62, and Judith Wilson Sizemore, d'61, and the step-granddaughter of Michael Sizemore, l'67. Lindsey's great-grandfather, Harvey Wilson, b'33, also attended KU.

Derek Dixon follows in the footsteps of his Jayhawk sister, Kristen, c'07. He comes to the Hill with Wichita Southeast High School baseball honors in tow, after earning a spot on the all-city second team as a utility player. Off the field, Derek was a member of National Honor Society and Young Life, and worked at the Gehrer Performance Center. He is the son of Dede Salome Dixon, c'76, and the grandson of William III, '51, and Ann Galloway Salome, c'52. Derek is the great-grandson of William Salome Jr., 1921, and Myrna Paris Salome, assoc. At KU, Derek joins his first cousin and fellow freshman, Taylor Salome.

A man of many talents, Patrick Eland had multiple activities to keep him busy at Hoxie High School. He was a member of the Northwest Kansas all-academic football, basketball and golf teams. Patrick also honed his writing skills working as a sports writer for the Hoxie Sentinel. On the Hill, Patrick joins his brother, Bradley, who is a senior business student. Their crimson and blue lineage started with paternal great-grandparents Floyd, e'31, and Lola Banta King, c'31. Patrick's paternal grandparents are John, c'57, l'59, and Carolyn King Eland, d'58. His maternal grandparents are Bill, d'59, g'66, and Betsy Lyon Hamm, c'61, along with step-grandmother Mary Barber Hamm, d'65, g'86. Patrick and Bradley are the sons of Kenneth Eland, c'81, and Peggy Hamm Eland, d'82.

Katherine Feller of Lenexa honed her leadership skills on the Shawnee Mission West student council. Also a member of National Honor Society, Katherine excelled in numerous academic activities, including Spanish, and traveled to Peru with fellow students to study with a Peruvian family. Katherine is the daughter of Michael, b'82, g'86, and Carla Koenigs Feller, b'82. Her Jayhawk lineage continues through her grandparents, Eugene Koenigs, e'52, and Donald, '59, and Mary Sanborn Feller, d'58. Her great-grandfather is Austin Sanborn, '20.

Joanna Ferm found dancing slippers soon after she learned to walk. At Chaska Senior High School in Chanhassen, Minn., she danced on the varsity dance team for four years. Joanna enjoys traveling and makes exercise a priority in her life. She is the daughter of Ann Cathcart, c'76. Her KU grandparents are the late Thompson, c'51, and Anita Boughton Cathcart, '43. Her great-grandfather is Lloyd Boughton, p'32, PhD'40. Joanna joins her sister, Rebecca, at KU.

After applying himself in academics and athletics at Shawnee Mission South, Tim Fields comes to the Hill ready for new challenges. He made the honor roll every semester and participated in football, track and field and swimming. Timothy is the son of Robert, c'76, and Nancy Hendon Fields, c'76, m'81. His paternal grandparents are Wilbur Ray, assoc., and Janet Sloan Fields, c'45, f'46, and his maternal grandmother is the late Virginia Walters Hendon, c'41. He is the great-grandson of Charles Sloan, e'17. Timothy joins his brother, Ben, a KU senior.

Reagan Fromm's spirit was evident on the court and in the classroom. As co-captain of the varsity cheerleading squad, she graduated with a 4.0 while gathering numerous academic awards at Shawnee Mission East, including the President's Award for Educational Excellence.

Reagan's KU heritage hails back to great-grandparents, Harry, assoc., and Edith Cubbison Darby, '17. Her maternal grandparents are All-America football and basketball star Ray Evans, b'47, and Edith Darby Evans, d'47. Her mother is Julie Evans Fromm, d'78. Reagan's brother, Ryan Pfeiffer, completed a journalism degree in 2002. At KU, Reagan joins her cousins and fellow freshmen, Neal Stark and Blair Rester.

Lawrence native Amanda Gage will easily scale the Hill after running with

Lawrence High School's cross country and track teams. She also wrote for the newspaper and participated in student council and National Honor Society. Amanda's KU heritage starts on her father's side of the family with great-grandparents John, 1907, and Marjorie Hires Gage, '17; and continues through grandparents John, l'52, and Eleanor Pack Gage, c'47; and her parents, David, b'86, and Mary Remboldt Gage, c'81, g'00. Amanda has two brothers at KU, Jacob, a senior, and Travis, a sophomore.

Clark Goble made headlines in journalism, earning the Harbinger Award for excellence in sports writing, the Quill and Scroll honor award and the Kansas Scholastic Press Association regional award. He also was sports editor of Shawnee Mission East's newspaper and participated in varsity track and basketball. Clark's other activities included SHARE, a student volunteer organization, and the Parkinson's Basketball Fundraiser. He is the son of Jeffrey, c'79, g'81, and Sharon Rake Goble, b'80, g'81. His grandparents are Myron, e'49, and the late Dorothy Harter Rake, d'48. Clark's KU lineage dates back to his great-grandparents, Aldred, c'22, and Leta Harper Harter, c1911. Clark's brother, Corban, graduated from KU last spring with degrees in economics and English.

An ace in both athletics and academics, Alexandra Gregory participated in volleyball, basketball and track at Crane High School in Crane, Texas, and earned a spot on the all-state academic volleyball and basketball teams last year. She also received state band honors for three years and medaled in the French horn solo and quartet competitions for the state music contest. Alexandra's parents are Alan, '85, and Leslie Burtner Gregory, c'70. Her Jayhawk heritage continues on her father's side with her grandparents, the late Donald, c'51, and the late Helen Anderson Gregory, c'51. Her great-grandfather is Omar Gregory, c'19, l'20.

Business-minded Brian Haverty comes to KU from Shawnee Mission East. He helped fellow students organize effective marketing projects through DECA, an international association of marketing students, and also recently started working at Xikar Inc., in an effort to learn more about entrepreneurship. During high school he also participated in football, wrestling and SHARE, a student volunteer organization. Brian's crimson and blue roots include his parents, Tim, b'83, and Jennifer Jones Haverty, d'84; grandparents, Alvin, c'57, and Nancy Hampton Haverty, c'55, and the late Jerome Jones, c'50, l'52; and great-grandparents, Ernest Hampton, c'26, l'29, and Richard, 1912, and Maryzita Cahill Jones, 1913. Brian joins his brother, Patrick, at KU this fall.

Tanner Hawkinson travels in the footsteps of his brother, Tucker, a KU sophomore. Tanner played football for McPherson High School and will join coach Mark Mangino's 'Hawks this fall. They are the brothers of Thomas Marcellino, c'01, m'05, and Ingrid Marcellino, c'02. Tanner is the son of Kathryn Johnson Hawkinson, c'74, and the grandson of John Johnson, c'51, m'55. His great-grandfather, Paul Hawkinson, 1907, started the Jayhawk tradition for Tanner and his family.

Mark Herwig of Overland Park graduated from Blue Valley Northwest. As an academic standout, he gained membership in National Honor Society and received the Presidential Award for Excellence. Mark also participated in cross country and is an Eagle Scout. He is the son of Robert, c'77, and Susan Galyardt Herwig, '76. His grandparents are Andy, '65, and Cynthia Galyardt, '66, and Bill Herwig, b'50, who is the son of Fredrick Herwig, '22. Mark joins his brother, Andrew, at KU.

Erik Ise helped Rockhurst High School's football team clinch a state championship last fall. He comes to KU after graduating with honors and participating in Spanish Club and Students Against Drunk Driving. His crimson and blue roots extend to his great-uncle, John Ise, f1908, c1910, PhD 1911, who taught economics at KU for 39 years. Erik is the son of Franklin, c'82, and Susan Obermayer Ise, n'84. His grandparents are Frank Ise Jr., b'58 and Carole Means Ise Hunter, n'59. Erik's great-grandfather is Frank Ise, c'17.

Jack Jeter juggled a variety of activities at Hays High School, but still had time to help out at Hays Medical Center, where he volunteered for three years. He was a member of the golf team and worked as a pro shop assistant at Smoky Hill Country Club. He also serenaded his peers during numerous musicals and choir concerts. Jack joins his brother, Sam, at KU. Other KU relatives include parents, John Jeter, c'77, m'81, and Mary Strunk, '86; grandparents Norman, l'37, and Ann Horton Jeter, '37; and great-grandmother Vera Preder Horton, c'20.

As a varsity captain, this soccer star helped his team collect Minnesota state honors in 2006 and a conference championship in 2007. There's no doubt Jack Johnson had rhythm on the field, and he kept perfect time playing alto saxophone in concert band and wind ensemble at Southwest High School in Minneapolis. Jack also sang in Mount Olivet Lutheran Church's 175-member choir. He is the son of Edward, assoc., and Carol Kennedy Johnson, b'77. His grandparents are the late Thomas, l'53, and Dorothy Wandling Kennedy, d'54. Dorothy's father, Lee Wandling, '24, and Thomas' mother, Alice Carney Kennedy, '23, also attended KU. Jack joins his cousin, Tommy Kennedy, on the Hill.

As a four-year varsity golfer, Tommy Kennedy helped lead the Shawnee Mission East golf team to a state championship last spring. He was a leader in the classroom as a member of National Honor Society and DECA, an international association of marketing students. Tommy helped his community by volunteering for the Parkinson's Foundation of the Heartland and Children's Mercy Hospital. Tommy joins his sister, Betsy, a junior this fall. Tommy's parents are Robert, assoc., and Debra Dicus Kennedy, d'80. His grandparents are Thomas, l'53, and Dorothy Wandling Kennedy, d'54, and Jack, b'55, and Betty Bubb Dicus, b'55. Lee Wandling, '24, and Alice Carney Kennedy, '23; and Henry, '28, and Elizabeth Black Bubb, '29, are his great-grandparents.

Along with numerous clubs and organizations at Eudora High School, Catherine Klotz was a member of National Honor Society and captain of the cheerleading squad her senior year. She also played volleyball for four years and softball for two. Catherine is the daughter of Gary, b'84, and Laura Dunmire Klotz, c'83, g'85. Her Jayhawk roots continue on her mother's side with her grandparents, Fred, b'55 and Catherine Campbell Dunmire, c'55; great-grandfather, Ray Dunmire, b'15; and great-grandparents, John, c'13, m'15, and Laura Harkrader Campbell, c'22.

Bridget Lamb travels to KU from Bishop Shanahan High School in Downingtown, Pa. She leaves behind a career in soccer to take on KU's University Honors Program. Bridget excelled in academics and was a member of National Honor Society and became a National Merit Commended Student. She is the daughter of Harold, e'79, and Susan Weinand Lamb, c'80. Her grandmother is Nancy Longenecker Lamb, g'64, and her great-grandfather is Charles W. Longenecker, m1899.

With a brilliant backhand, Kaitlin Marquis earned several tennis titles for Blue Valley North, including a state doubles championship. Off the court, she honed her language skills as a member of the Latin club and earned a spot at the top of the class with participation in National Honor Society and National Society of High School Scholars. Kaitlin is the daughter of Hoyt Marquis, j'84, and the granddaughter of Edward, b'49, and Suzanne Hoyt Marquis, c'53. She is the great-granddaughter of Ruth Horton Hoyt, '22.

Jefferson Allison, attended KU from 1919 to 1923 and played fullback for Phog Allen's football team of 1920—the only year he coached football. Ellis also was a member of the gymnastics team under James Naismith. Patrick's Jayhawk heritage continues with his grandparents, Ellis J., e'52, and Marjorie Allison, assoc.; and parents, William, b'76, and Cheryl Allison Morton, c'77. Patrick's older brother, Christopher, graduated from KU in 2005 with a business degree.

Veteran spiker Amber McKinley helped Washburn Rural High School's volleyball team win state championships in 2007 and 2008. Amber also showcased her athletic talents on the basketball and softball teams. Off the court, she was a member of Spanish club and volunteered at Brewster Place Retirement Home and Country-side United Methodist Church. Amber's great-grandparents are Robert, c'24, and Jane Akers Forney, assoc. Her grandparents are James Perry, c'54, and Susan Forney, d'54. Amber's parents are Michael, '82, and Jane Perry McKinley, d'80.

Charlotte Parrish fine-tuned her experience at Shawnee Mission East as a member of multiple musical organizations, including jazz band and orchestra. She also was a member of the state honor orchestra and National Honor Society. She is the daughter of Susan Hayden Parrish, g'86. Her grandparents are Ralph, b'54, and Mildred Olson Hayden, d'58. Charlotte's great-grandparents are Albert, c'27, and Lula Hartman Hayden, '24.

John McGrew follows several sets of Jayhawks to the Hill. The graduate of Lawrence High School played varsity tennis and was a standout in the choral music program. He is the son of Michael, b'83, and Christine Blount McGrew, c'92, and the grandson of John McGrew, b'60, and Jill Boxberger, c'81. John's great-grandparents are the late Conrad, f'27, and Viola Schaake McGrew, c'28.

Blair Rester hails from the Lone Star State as a graduate of Cedar Park High School near Austin. He is the son of Matt, c'84, and Mary Alford Rester, c'84. His maternal grandparents are Eugene Jr., '49, and Marjorie Darby Alford, c'49. His maternal great-grandparents, Harry, assoc., and Edith Cubbison Darby, '17, started the KU family tree. Blair joins his cousins and fellow freshmen, Reagan Fromm and Neal Stark, at KU.

Patrick Morton travels to the Hill from Overland Park. He helped lead Blue Valley Northwest High School's wrestling team as captain and was elected to Kansas's all-academic first team for the sport. He also was a member of National Honor Society and Husky Headlines, the school's broadcast team. Patrick's great-grandfather, Ellis Sharpshooter Caroline Robb comes to KU with multiple awards in academics and basketball. Caroline left Newton High School as a National Spanish Honor Scholar, Kansas State Scholar and member of the National Honor Society. She also spent time helping Big Brothers & Big Sisters. Caroline is the daughter of Joseph, b'82, and Joy Hanson Robb, c'82, g'86. Her grandparents are George, c'48, l'50, and Dineen Somers Robb, c'47, and Norman, b'48, g'51, PhD'86, and Lois Hanson, '84. Caroline's great-grandfather, John Glenn Somers, l'15, started the KU tradition. Caroline will join her sister, Betsy, at KU.

Caroline Roth brings her backhand to the Hill after gaining a Missouri state tennis title for Notre Dame de Sion High School in Kansas City, Mo. Caroline helped the soccer team win last year's state championship. She also participated in Spanish club, volunteered with the Kansas City Read Program and helped organize the senior class service project "Boogie for Benefit," which raised more than $4,000 for Osawatomie flood victims. Caroline is the great-granddaughter of J. A. Vickers, who attended KU from 1916 to 1918, and for whom the business school's lecture series is named. Her grandparents are Robert, assoc., and Susan Vickers, assoc. Caroline's parents are Steve, b'79, and Casey Vickers Roth, c'80. She'll join her brother, Patrick, on Mount Oread.

Taylor Salome can't wait to cheer for the 'Hawks after playing on Wichita Southeast High School's state championship basketball team. He gained an honorable mention for the all-city team last winter and played varsity golf for four years. He will bring his writing skills to the Hill after working for the yearbook. Taylor is the son of Scott, c'81, and Karen Dwyer Salome, c'82, and the grandson of William III, '51, and Ann Galloway Salome, c'52. Taylor's great-grandfather is the late William Salome Jr., '21. Taylor joins his cousin, Derek Dixon, at KU.

Neal Stark raced through high school and graduated with varsity letters in lacrosse and cross country. He also showed his leadership skills as a participant in ing freshmen. Neal's KU roots include his maternal grandfather, All-America football and basketball star Ray Evans, b'47, and grandmother Edith Darby Evans, d'47. Neal is the son of Rita Evans Stark, c'76, and the maternal grandson of Barbara Breed Stark, c'46. His great-grandparents are Harry, assoc., and Edith Cubbin Darby, '17. Neal joins his brother, Graham, and cousins, Reagan Fromm and Blair Rester, at the University.

Hannah Sturgeon of Leawood edited photos for Blue Valley North's newspaper. She also was a member of the dance team and National Honor Society, and received the Presidential Service Award. Hannah's Jayhawk roots started with great-grandmother, Maurine Morley Cruse, c'28, and continued with grandparents, the late Edwin, c'50, l'52, who played in the 1948 Orange Bowl, and Diana Cruse Lee, d'55. Hannah is the daughter of John, c'84, m'89, and Samantha Lee Sturgeon, d'84. Hannah joins her brother, Scott, a junior at KU this fall.

Daniel Supica grooved to his own beat at Olathe North High School, where he was drum major for the school's marching band, and participated in state band. Also a Kansas Honor Scholar, Daniel comes to KU academically prepared. He is the son of Jim, c'77, l'80, and Eve Lessenden Supica, c'74, MSW'80. His grandparents are the late Chester Jr., c'40, m'43, and Edith Lessenden Chandler, c'44, g'52. His great-grandmother is Edith Hambleton, c1911. Daniel is the brother of Jamie, c'08, and David, '10.

With 18 Jayhawks in her family, there's no doubt why Andrea Voth chose KU. Academics were a priority for Andrea at J.K. Mullen High School in Littleton, Colo., where she was a member of National Honor Society. She also hurred on the lacrosse field as a member of the varsity team. Andrea is the daughter of Ned, c'81, and Jana Eriksen Voth, c'81. Her maternal grand-parents are John, b'57, and Jane Faubion Eriksen, '58. Andrea's paternal grandfather, George Voth, '47, also attended KU. Her great-grandparents are Carl, c'30, and Dorothy Graber Eriksen, c'30.

Mitchell Walsh played football and rugby at Edina High School in Edina, Minn. He was rugby team captain for two years and also played hockey. He became a leader in school and church as a member of student council and youth leader at Christ Presbyterian Church. He follows his Jayhawk heritage from his great-grandfather John Mitchell II, '38; through his grandparents John III, c'62, m'66, and Ann Bell Mitchell, e'61; and his parents, Timothy, c'88, and Andrea Mitchell Walsh, c'85, b'85.

With three crimson and blue generations preceding him, Nolan Wright will fit right in on Jayhawk Boulevard. He travels from the Wichita area as a graduate of Andover High School. He joins his brother, Bryan, on the Hill this fall. Nolan is the son of Wyatt Wright, c'77. His family tree continues with grandfather Morgan Wright, c'49, l'50, and father, Wyatt Wright, c'77. He is the great-grandson of the late Lillian Morgan Wright, '16.

Third Generation

He excelled in music and theatre and was a member of the Kansas all-state band for three years, drum major of the marching band, and acted numerous roles in school productions and at the Lawrence Community Theatre. Xander was a Kansas Honor Scholar, a member of National Honor Society and received the Principal's Award for Excellence. He is the son of Joseph Casad, e'80, and Barbara Dinneen Casad,

'96. His paternal grandfather is Robert Casad, c'50, g'52. His maternal grandparents are David, g'54, and Nancy Lane Dinneen g'55, PhD'73.

Alton Chaney is ready to plunge into life on the Hill after swimming for Vista Ridge High School in Cedar Park, Texas. He also taught swimming lessons and was a life-guard at Lifetime Fitness in Austin. Out of the pool, he's got an eye for the silver screen and has produced several films, including a documentary for LifeWorks charity. He follows his father, Fred Smith, c'90, and grandfather James Dean Smith, f'65.

Bridget Clarke will set the pace at KU after running cross country and track and playing soccer at Garden City High School. Away from sports, she starred onstage during school plays. Her older sister, Whitney, j'08, paved the way for Bridget. They are the daughters of Jeff, assoc., and Marjie Joseph Clarke, s'81, and the granddaughters of John Clarke, j'58.

KU will be par for the course for Paige Clarke after playing golf for Hays High School for four years. She also honed her business skills working and competing with DECA—an international association of marketing students—for two years. Paige's grandfather, John Clarke, j'58, started the crimson and blue tradition. Paige's parents are John II, b'79, and Jayne Clarke, assoc. Paige joins her cousin, Bridget, on Mount Oread this fall.

Megan Dyer of Prairie Village graduated from Shawnee Mission East as a Kansas State Scholar and a Kansas Honor Scholar, and was a recipient of the President's Education Award. She also played violin in the orchestra, danced on the dance team, and volunteered with the Children's Therapy Group. Megan is the daughter of David, b'82, and Susan Martin Dyer, h'85. She is the granddaughter of Kermit Dyer, e'65.

Bizi Ferguson of Leawood rides up the Hill from Blue Valley North High School. The United States Equestrian Federation member and winner of multiple equestrian awards also stayed busy as a varsity cheerleader and a broadcaster for the Blue Valley School District television station. She set aside time to help out with local charity service projects, including the Harvester's Food Drive and the United Methodist Church of the Resurrection Sack Lunch for the Homeless. Bizi is the daughter of Scott Ferguson, e'83. She is the granddaughter of the late Dale, j'50, and Janice Horn Ferguson, d'52.

Kansas Honor Scholar Hilary Ferguson of Lawrence High School excelled in academics, and helped the golf team make an appearance at the state tournament. She also fine-tuned her pitch for a capella choir. Hilary follows her sister, Jordan, to KU, who graduated last May with a degree in business. Hilary's crimson and blue roots stem from her maternal grandparents, Monte, b'59, g'67, and Kay Rathbone Johnson, d'60. Her parents are Kent Ferguson, '83, and Jackie Johnson Ferguson, b'85.

He also played water polo and became an Eagle Scout. Michael's maternal grandparents, the late George, b'48, l'51, and the late Margaret Logan McCarthy, '48, started the KU trend. Michael's mother is Janice Logan Fischer, '78, of Leawood.

Kansas State Scholar Adam Franklin of Topeka follows a doctor and a chemist to KU, and his academic achievement suggests he'll be just as successful. With a strong background in leadership, he was a member of student council at Hayden High School and an alumnus of Lead America. He also was a member of National Honor Society and played varsity basketball. He is the son of Mike, c'85, m'89, and Kathryn Stutz Franklin, c'85. Adam's grandparents are Robert, c'53, g'57, PhD'61, and Janet Mangan Stutz, d'60.

Josh Frederick is the 22nd member of his family to attend KU, and there's no doubt he's prepared for classes. The Free State High School valedictorian comes to the Hill with a variety of honors, including rankings of National Merit Finalist, Kansas Governor's Scholar, Kansas Honor Scholar and ACT Scholar. Away from studies, Josh played in the marching, symphonic and jazz bands and was a member of Kansas all-state band for three years. He joins his sister, Amanda, at KU. Their parents are Joel, d'81, g'92, and Diana Seely Frederick, c'82. Josh's paternal grandfather is the late Donald Frederick, '69, and his maternal grandparents are the late Gene Seely, '81, and Arline Seely-Bensch, g'86.

Kansas City, Mo., native John Fritzen is sure to make a splash at KU after leading Rockhurst High School's swim team to four back-to-back state championships as co-captain. He leaves high school as a National Merit Commended Student and member of National Honor Society, and will join the KU Honors program. John is the son of Tom, c'84, and Kelly Myers Fritzen, '86, and the grandson of Thomas Fritzen, c'50, m'54.

Tyler Fowler of Leawood kept fellow classmates at Blue Valley High School informed while working as a sports anchor for Tiger TV. He also was a member of the golf team and Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and spent time away from school hunting, hiking and fishing. Tyler is the son of Michael, c'86, and Jane Mitchell Fowler, c'86. His grandparents are Rome, '60, and Wanda Jean Mitchell, g'80.

Bishop Miege High School track star Kevin Glatt comes to the Hill from Overland Park. He received the Eastern Kansas League Scholar Athlete Award and qualified for the state cross country meet, both for four years. The Kansas Honor Scholar also set the pace in academics and graduated in the top 10 percent of his class. He is the son of Christopher Glatt, g'90, and the grandson of Ruth Bertsch Glatt, n'52.

As a participant of advanced radio and television classes, Leslie Goodwin of Shawnee Mission South created video packages that were aired on the Shawnee Mission School District's channel. Leslie also can translate the alma mater into French, after studying with fellow students in France last summer. Leslie follows her sister, Jessica, a senior; her parents, John, c'82, m'86, and Beth Lashinsky Goodwin, j'82; and her late grandmother, Carol Glenn Goodwin, g'55.

Kelsey Grimm brings linguistic wisdom to KU after serving as secretary of French National Honor Society for Chaparral High School in Parker, Colo. She also tore up the track after being selected as a member of the all-league, all-state and all-academic first teams. Kelsey finished strong with the track team, including third place in triple jump and sixth place in long jump at the state championship. She is the daughter of Gregory, e'85, and Karen Cargo Grimm, c'85. Kelsey's paternal grandparents are Dean, e'58, and Eunice Grimm, assoc.

Stewart Grindel comes to KU as a National Merit Commended Scholar, AP Scholar, and recipient of the KU Freshman Achievement Scholarship. He graduated magna cum laude from Wichita Collegiate School, where he was a percussionist for the drum line, as well as jazz, concert and pep bands. He also lettered in tennis and participated in the national BEST robotics competition. Stewart's KU lineage started on his mom's side with grandparents Douglas, '71, and Kay Robuck Murphy, '71; and continued with his parents, Steve, p'80, m'90, and Michelle Murphy Grindel, c'81, h'82.

Wichita native Kevin Griswold will launch—after his grandfather, father and brother—into KU's aerospace engineering program. The Goddard High School graduate already has gained experience in the field after entering the BEST robotics competition. Kevin also earned a varsity letter in bowling and the rank of Eagle Scout. His parents are Douglas, e'77, g'80, and Margaret Hodson Griswold, d'75. He has two sets of Jayhawk grandparents: James, e'53, and Rebecca Garvin Griswold, p'53; and Charles, c'41, l'50, and Margaret Brown Hodson, c'43. Kevin joins his brother, Jeff, on the Hill.

Jaclyn Haith is right at home in Jayhawk country. Before graduating from Shawnee Mission East High School, she was involved in pep club and SHARE, a student volunteer organization. The Leawood native also swam and was captain of the soccer team. Jaclyn made time to volunteer for the Kansas City Soup Kitchen and various nursing homes. She is the daughter of Myron Haith, c'76, and the granddaughter of Joseph Haith, b'46. Jaclyn joins her brother, Josh, a junior, at KU this fall.
